Dear Dr [REDACTED],

This is with reference to your email message. The reply to your queries are as given below:

(i) The Ministry of Education of China (MOE-PRC) permits the admission of international students, including Indian students, in a medical degree course taught in Chinese medium. Every year, Ministry of Education issues a List of Medical Universities/ Institutions and the scale of enrollment for Undergraduate Clinical Medicine Programs taught in English medium for International Students. The same list is uploaded on the Embassy's website. The communication from Ministry of Education clearly mentions that the Universities/ Institutions not mentioned in the list cannot enroll foreign students in Clinical Medicine and Oral Medicine for English language course. However, foreign students can enroll in Chinese language courses.

(ii) The letter number mentioned in your message is a response to an RTI application, which mentions that "In terms of the notification of MOE-PRC, Indian student can study clinical medicine in Chinese language in any recognized University apart from those included in the list issued by MOE for English language education". The same, however, cannot be construed as "No Objection" issued by the Embassy of India, Beijing.
